Dr. Rula Nuri Baysan Short Bio:
Dr. Baysan is graduated from University of Alberta, Canada (major in archaeology and biological anthropology). She later joined several seasons archaeological excavations in Jordan with University of Toronto, researching evidence of early culture and settlement dating to 6000 BC. Dr. Baysan used the human remains from these sites as the subject of her MSc thesis at the joint program between the University of Sheffield and Bradford in the UK.

Dr. Baysan completed her PhD studies at the Institute of Archaeology - University College London, where she investigated diet and health of the people who lived at the famous site of Jericho, in the southern Levant, during Bronze and Iron ages.

She started in 2006 part-time teaching at Yeditepe University, and upon PhD graduation in 2010, she was employed full-time as Asst. Prof. at the Department of Anthropology. She was responsible for teaching archeology and culture, biological anthropology, war and violence in archaeology, and forensic anthropology courses.

As of October 2016, Dr. Rula Baysan is working as an independent scholar and is part of two international excavation teams working at the famous sites of Tell Archanah with Mustafa Kemal University in Hatay and Karkamish near Gaziantep with Bologna University, Italy.
